

Sketchucation SCF License

Instructions to Users

version 6.0 – January 2023

The present user-manual gives you instructions on how to license an extension on Sketchucation. There are only 2 steps: Purchase and Activate.

Note:

- You need an Internet connection for purchasing and activating the license. But, once the license is activated, you can work offline: license checking is done locally on your computer, with periodic checks online to verify the licensing.
- A license is valid for all versions of Sketchup, past and future. Likewise, you can upgrade the extension independently of the license. So, licensing an extension is done once.

1. Requirements

- 1) You must have a valid registration on Sketchucation (free account is enough - Premium members usually get a significant discount on licenses). See <https://sketchucation.com/register.php> for registration.
- 2) Install the Sketchucation ExtensionStore extension, v4.3 or above. It includes the management of licenses and many other features to install other extensions and keep them up to date.

Sketchucation ExtensionStore: <https://sketchucation.com/pluginstore?pln=SketchUcationTools>

2. Purchasing a license

Licensed extensions have a License... menu item in their menu¹. It displays a dialog box to manage everything about licenses. When the extension is not yet licensed, the dialog box displays as below:

Click on button Purchase License. You will be directed to the Purchase page of the extension on the Sketchucation web site (you will need to sign in):

Licenses come with a number of allocated seats, typically 3. This means that you can activate it on up to 3 computers. The number of seats taken and free is indicated in the License dialog box.

In the License dialog box, click on the Release License button. Note that you must be connected to Internet for the Release License operation.

You will be prompted for confirmation.

³ The HW ID is a unique, randomly generated code identifying the computer where the license is activated.

8. Additional Remarks

8.1. Getting the number of Seats

You can validate the same Purchased License File on several computers. The number of seats (e.g. computers) taken is stored on the Sketchucation Server. However, if you have the License dialog box opened and do a validation in parallel on other computers, you may need to refresh the information by just clicking on the Seats... button.

8.2. History

There is a history of license-related actions for the device. Just click on the History... button to display the log of activities. This may be useful if you have license validation problems and you need to interact with Sketchucation.

The screenshot shows a window titled "License History - FredoSpline" with a table of events. The table has three columns: Date, Event Code, and Description. The events are listed in chronological order from top to bottom. The background color of each row indicates the status: green for successful operations, red for errors, and white for information.

8.3. Under the Hood

SCF License relies on the Sketchucation Server and some local files. Validation, Release and Seat refresh requires an interaction with the Sketchucation Server. This is why you need to be connected to Internet for these operations. However, when you launch Sketchup and use the licensed extension, you can be offline. All checks are done locally.

The local files are stored in a reserved directory, which you can access via the License File Location... button in the History panel, or in the Global License Status panel. This reserved directory is independent of the Sketchup version (this is why you can license extensions across Sketchup versions).

There are 2 unique files by computer and one local license file per licensed extension.

All files are in plain text (.txt) but encrypted (except the History log).

- SCFLicenseSignature - DO NOT MODIFY OR DELETE.txt identifies your computer for all licensed extensions.
- SCFLicenseLog.txt is simply the history log
- For each licensed extension, there is a local license file with the name of the extension: SCFLicense_<extension>_this_computer.txt.

VERY IMPORTANT: NEVER, Never alter these files or move them around or delete them. This would simply invalidate your license(s).

8.4. Privacy and Confidentiality

The exchange of information between your Computer and the Sketchucation Servers does not include any private information from your computer.

Your computer is identified by a unique token attributed randomly at the first license validation. It is not the 'computer name' of the computer. The token is stored in the signature file.

The information exchanged with the Sketchucation Server only comprised this token, the Sketchucation pseudo (used for login) and the email address which you have given at purchase time.
